The Pantry's early vision was to create a market where a chef or inspired cook could come to buy hard-to-find products and top notch ingredients. Since these early days we have morphed to fit the needs of our discriminating clients and now provide a much broader based offering in their prepared foods and catering areas. As a small, local business, The Pantry feels it is their duty to provide outstanding customer service and to fulfill the requests of their patrons. They now carry a large selection of locally crafted products as well as regionally grown produce. The ever changing array of wares makes each visit to The Pantry an exciting and tantalizing experience. Need the advice of a seasoned chef? There are many CIA trained chefs under this roof, including executive chef, Kirsten Guldbrandsen, who has been with the business since day one and will soon be joining as a partner.

At The Pantry you will find the perfect blend of mainstream items along with specialty merchandise. They choose from the best in order to ensure a superior product while maintaining competitive pricing. Come in and see what's in stock!
